

Dear FCC. My comment is that you DO NOT CNANGE the current cell phone policy. When the cabin door closes all cell phones should be turned OFF. I for one do not want to be forced to sit next to a person gabbing on their cell phone. That happens enough in public now but the difference is that I can walk away. There can be enough stress on airplanes without you allowing rude people to talk on their cell phones while you are trapped into a seat within range of their voice. And by the way, if the plane is hijacked I will pull my cell phone out and call 911 just like those people did on September 11, 2001. Do the traveling public a favor and ban cell phone usage on commercial aircraft.
